Search for another doctor underway

The search for a physician to replace Dr. Frank Estey on the staff of Elk Point Municipal Hospital is underway, following Dr. Estey's decision to leave his Elk Point practice at the end of this week. Elk Point Hospital Board met last night, after press time, to discuss with both Elk Point Town Council and the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce the urgent need for additional medical staff.

Hospital Administrator Clem Johnson says the Hospital Board is in the midst of "a very aggressive recruitment program" and has contacted medical associations and advertised across Canada. They will extend their advertising to other countries if the need arises. In response, they have had a number of inquiries, and one doctor is planning to come to Elk Point today to look at the area, and possibly to work here on a short term basis. At the moment, Johnson says, short term relief is what the Board is looking for, while the process of finding a permanent replacement continues. "Anyone who wants to help out for a while is more than welcome."

Elk Point Town Council is concerned not only with the present situation, but with the ongoing difficulty of recruiting medical doctors for small towns such as Elk Point. They agreed that this concern should go to the Association of Urban Municipalities of Alberta as a resolution, and as a brief to next week's public hearing of the Northern Alberta Development Council, requesting support for small communities who wish to recruit doctors. A letter is also to be drafted to the Alberta College of Physicians and Surgeons, outlining the problem small towns experience in this regard.

Town Council

CTAC to present brief

A shorthanded Elk Point Town Council, with three members including Mayor Kleeberger and Deputy Mayor Pidluzny on vacation, met last Tuesday evening and made short work of a full agenda, with Councillor Adele Mandryk competently chairing proceedings.

Council was advised that the Community Tourism Action Committee planned to present a brief regarding the benefits of continued development of the Fort George-Buckingham House fort sites, to the Minister's Council on Local Development, when that group meets here August 15. Council felt this would be a good opportunity to point out the potential of the site as a tourism resource, with far reaching economic spinoffs, and moved to endorse the presentation.

Participation in a self-insurance program through the Association of Urban Municipalities (AUMA), as well as the ALARIE liability insurance program, were adopted by Council. This would give the Town the same amount of coverage as they presently have, and would hold the liability insurance premiums at the 1987-88 price for five years.

The $815,000 price tag for a permanent water supply pipeline from the North Saskatchewan River comes to more than half a million dollars more than available grant funding, and has forced the Town of Elk Point to consider alternate means of accessing the water, such as by the use of a temporary pipeline such as has been used twice in the past year to fill the raw water reservoir. That type of line, which would cost approximately $100,000, would have to be taken away to storage each winter, but would likely last at least 5 years and would save considerable money as well as giving the Town more flexibility in pumping time than a rental line. While not a permanent solution, it is one which could prove cost effective. The Utilities Committee was asked to investigate the possibilities of such a purchase.

Fourth Aggregate Win

Norma Berg has done it again! New Fair Board Chairperson Verona Lee Flanders presents Mrs. Berg with the Elk Point Fair Grand Aggregate trophy for the fourth time in five years. The Grand Aggregate cash award was sponsored by Norcen Energy Resources, with a small replica plaque sponsored by Vogel's UFA.

Elk Point Fair

Norma Berg wins Fair Aggregate

The greenest thumb in the Elk Point area must surely belong to Norma Berg, whose prize ribbons for fresh fruit, cut flowers and house plants added up to win first place in all three sections. Add that to her second place standing in the Canning section, and the result is yet another Grand Aggregate win for the same lady who took home those honors in 1986, 1987 and 1988.

Lois Yaremkevich, also a former Grand Aggregate winner of the early 1980s, placed second in the Grand Aggregate race, with wins in both the Baking and Canning sections. Jean Dacyk, who had the third highest total points, took home the honors in the Vegetables section, and had the third highest number of points in both baking and canning.

Verona Lee Flanders, in her first year as chairperson of the Fair Board, said she was pleased with the good response to the Fair, and thanked not only those who entered, but those who helped to haul entries in and out, the donors of the prizes, and the Fair Board members for all the efforts which came together as another successful Fair.

Baking section convenor Irene Lindquist reported entries in her section were way up from last year, in spite of high temperatures this past week. A total of 94 entries were brought in, with 67 of these winning ribbons, in contrast to a total of 52 entries last year. A gift certificate from the Empress Restaurant was presented to winner Lois Yaremkevich. A special award for the Ethnic Meal division went to Sherry Pelech, whose mouthwatering Early Canadian repast had everything from pea soup to Saskatoon grunt, and won her a collection of oven-to-table ware from Albi Electric. There were no entries in the Heart Smart section, which also had its own prize from the Heart Association.

Norma Berg, convenor of the Canning section, reported entries in all but 4 of the 45 listed categories, brought in by 16 individuals. A set of dishes donated by Elk Point Co-op was presented to section winner Lois Yaremkevich.

Entries in the Vegetables section was up slightly, to 110 from 96, with a close race between winner Jean Dacyk and runner-up Gisele Pedersen. Convenor Katharine Shymkiw presented Mrs. Dacyk with her prize, donated by Phil's Hardware. Joanne Bepalko assisted with the section.

Fresh Fruit also attracted more entries than last year, convenor Lena Stepa reported. She presented the prize of a vase and flower arrangement from Woody's Trophy and Gift to Norma Berg. Dora Scott was Mrs. Stepa's assistant.

Rain too late for some crops

Crops have deteriorated badly in the last week, with several days of 30 to 34 degree temperatures taking some crops past the point where rain would help them to recover from the severe stress. With most crops filled and beginning to ripen, the continued hot, dry weather is causing kernels to shrivel in the heads, thus reducing potential yields and grades substantially. Soil moisture conditions remain very poor.

Old Fashioned Fun

The Fun In The Sun crew played a number of old fashioned games, such as Blind Man's Buff, at their windup party in Markstad Park last Friday. Some of the children dressed in costumes of yesteryear, in keeping with the theme of the party.

Lions swim program a big success

By Darlene Kozicky

The swim program at Whitney Lake, sponsored by the Elk Point and District Lions Club, was successful with 161 participants being taught by 4 instructors, with all Red Cross and RLSSC levels offered.

The first week of lessons was cool, weatherwise, but, by Friday, the weather started to improve and we finished the lessons under sunny skies and in warm water.

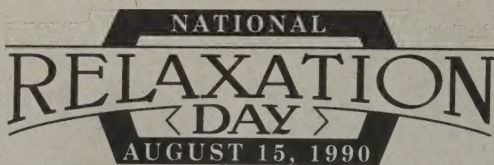

A big 'Thank You' to Ellen Seward for baking and decorating the "We Survived 1990 Swim Lessons" cake for our wind-up party and to Dee Pankiw for the Kool-aid cooler and helping hand with the party. The games and activities were loads of fun!

Thanks to all members of the Elk Point and District Lions Club for their financial support of our swim program, their labor to place and dismantle the piers for our use during swim lessons, the shack that we use to store our equipment and to provide shelter, their commitment to provide swim lessons to the Elk Point area, in cooperation with the Red Cross, and the instructors to ensure safe and enjoyable aquatics for everyone.

Trip Of The Month Winner

Mike Glover was the purchaser of the lucky ticket drawn in the Elk Point Lioness Trip of the Month contest for August, winning a trip to Reno or the cash equivalent. Lioness Holly Astill is joined by tiny daughter Deanna in making the presentation. Walter and Linda Ference were the $ 100 cash draw winners, while Susan Bardoel won the $ 50.

More council news

A change to personnel policy to permit the working of flexible hours by Town staff was looked into as a way of providing more hours of service for the same money, however it was deemed unworkable by Council, who voted to retain their present policy.

A preliminary investigation of costs and scope of a proposed street upgrading and utility line replacement program was referred to the Utilities Committee for their investigation. Once the scope of the program is determined, the Town will look for input from the homeowners in the affected areas to get their reaction to the plans.

Widening of Highway 41 will include provision of a service road on the west side of the highway from 57 Avenue to the town limits, at no cost to the Town, Council learned. However, the "Welcome to Elk Point" sign was in the way of construction and will be moved back to allow the work to proceed. Costs to build a new base and reinstall either that sign or a new wooden sign will be looked into.

Final inspection of the Recreation Land Picnic Shelter showed the structure ready for use, with no deficiencies, and the final payment was approved.

Remarks made by Doug Main, Minister of Culture, in an Edmonton Journal interview, drew Council's ire, as he suggested that the problem with insufficient library funding rests with municipalities rather than provincial grants. Councillor Mandryk noted that the Town of Elk Point and the County of St. Paul together provide 41.7 percent of the operating budget of the Elk Point Public Library, while the Province provides only 13.8 percent, less than the 14.4 percent raised internally. In addition, the Town provides $ 30,000 for building operation. Council voted to write to Main, indicating these figures, and suggesting that possibly a new funding formula would be in order.

Finest Of The Fair

Norma Berg wins Aggregate

"The judge said Elk Point has a lot of green thumbs," Ivy Dunlap reported, in summation of the results in the Cut Flowers section presided over by herself and Dolores Harps-Brunner. Norma Berg accepted the prize for the section, donated by Michelle's Hair Design.

It was then Mrs. Dunlap's turn for a presentation, as Verona Lee Flanders presented a gift and card to her, thanking her for her efforts on the Fair Board and wishing her well in her new home on the east coast.

Gisele Pedersen, convenor of the House Plants section, had less entries this year, "but nothing but the best quality." She thanked her helper Rose Doucet for setting up the display of 'no-fuss' houseplants, and presented Norma Berg with the section award of a brass fern stand from Macleods.

The lone male on the Fair Board, John Bennett, reported good quality entries in the Grains and Hay section, considering the far from ideal growing conditions. He presented a case of oil donated by Terry Wozniak Turbo Bulk Sales to winner Craig Campbell, and reported a tie for second place between Leonard Berg and Brett Flanders.

Fourteen ladies contributed 54 articles to make a very handsome display in the Senior Citizens section, where convenor Grace Barwick was also the winner of the award donated by Irene Magnusson in memory of her late husband Clifton.

A huge and colorful display of photographs took the spotlight on the south side of the upper floor of the Elks Hall, with many high quality entries. Lillian Demchuk, along with her assistants Sharon Kuhn and Rilla Higgins, spent much time arranging the many entries for viewing. Katharine Shymkiw was the winner of the plaque donated by Dave's Pizza.

Another very large section was the Junior Fair, with 230 entries. Convenor Gaby Bayduza presented the prize, donated by John and Gladys Drobot of Wagon Wheel Ranch, to her helper Krista Seward, and reported that runners up included Jennifer Flanders, Nicole and Dawn Sommerville.

More fair -- Page 16

Creative Writing, convened by Vicki Brooker, enjoyed a modest increase in the amount of entries, and saw a number of first time entrants this year. Billie Milholland was the section winner, taking home the prize from Lakeland Review, with former winner Irene Magnusson and new entrant Irene Melin tied for second place. Mrs. Magnusson is also the assistant in that section.

Arts and Crafts section assistant convenor Diane Huffman declared Verona Lee Flanders as the winner of that division, with an award sponsored by Elk Point Insurance and Realty. Lee Johnson, convenor, was unable to attend Saturday's awards.

Entries were somewhat lacking in the Sewing section convened by Cheri Lindquist with the assistance of Grace Pinder and Darlene Sereda. However, quality was excellent, and a number of fine looking fashions were displayed. Suzy Rae, a Grade 10 student at F. G. Miller High, was the winner of the Junior award sponsored by Mrs. Lindquist, while Mrs. Lindquist herself was the winner of the adult award sponsored by Capitol Drugs.

Knitting, Crochet and Weaving entries were also down, convenor Ellen Seward said. The Toronto Dominion Bank award for this section went to Ardis Dobson, a perennial out-of-town contributor to the fair, whose work is well known for its fine quality. Carol Hellquist assisted with the section.

In Our View

Welcome, Oilmen

A hearty Elk Point welcome to all those who are in town for this weekend's Oilmen's Golf Tournament. This year marks the seventh anniversary for this yearly event, and we are sure that it will be as big a success as it has been every year so far.

Best wishes for a great weekend of golf and social activities, with fair weather to make it even more enjoyable. Have a wonderful time, and come back and see us again next year!

Strange sort of hobby

The increase in the cutoff figure which determines, for the purpose of purchasing marked fuel for farm use, who is or who isn't a farmer has been proclaimed by some as another death blow for the family farm, as it puts all those who gross less than $ 10,000 in farm income into the 'hobby farm' category.

Some hobby!

A large percentage of those who gross under $ 10,000 from farming do not do so by choice. They are young farmers, just starting out, who have scrimped and saved and finally been able to buy or lease a quarter section or two of land. In many cases, this land cannot immediately be put into crop and bring in that magic figure. First, it must be cleared of bush, rocks and roots, and broken, in the same way that our pioneers carved their farms from the wilderness. This can be done quickly, with modern machinery, but many beginning farmers cannot afford to have a cat come in and do this work, so it must be done more slowly, with less cash outlay and more muscle power. Or, one might purchase land that has once been cleared, but not looked after. Getting rid of weeds cannot efficiently be done at the same time as a crop is being grown to produce the needed gross income. Should these beginning farmers be penalized because they want to make a start in agriculture?

And then there are those who are attempting to get back into farming, after having been forced off the farm by foreclosures brought about by the farm debt crisis and high interest rates. They are trying to work their way back in by starting on a small scale, and paying as they go. It will be considerably harder to do so when one must pay gas-pump prices for the fuel it takes to do their farm work.

Yes, these people have other employment, off the farm. A beginning farm cannot sustain itself, let alone provide a living for those who choose to make it their home. They hope that with years of working, essentially, two full time jobs, that this can come about and they will be able to give up their off farm employment, but they know realistically that this will be some time in the future.

There are also some small farmers nearing retirement age, who hang on and continue to farm a quarter or two, making just enough income for their needs. Maybe that amount would not be over $ 10,000 either, but it is enough to keep them in the way to which they have been accustomed. Should they be forced off their land by increased input costs?

Some have suggested that the move is to keep professional people from keeping a farm as a tax break, but this can't be so. You couldn't have enough losses on a small enough patch of land to only gross $ 10,000, to be of any use as a tax writeoff. And, if that is the concern, why not change the tax laws to prohibit deducting farm losses from off-farm earnings, rather than changing the farm fuel taxation amounts?

Farmers are an essential part of our economy, as well as a vital part of the food chain. They have a hard enough row to hoe already—why make it any harder for them to keep operating?

Alberta Trails

Changes, Changes

By Irene Magnusson

Sometimes we hardly notice any changes in the world around us. If we follow the same tracks, the same roads, do the same things day after day, week after week, perhaps changes so slight and subtle will slip in that we'll not notice them. Then suddenly, for one reason or another, there will be a shocking change—to our eyes, at least—but perhaps it has been growing for ages. We just didn't notice.

Such were the changes I became acquainted with this past week. For a few years, now, I have not been much to the lakes, certainly not to swim, fish or boat. These things are of little joy, done alone. I have gone occasionally just to look, and remember, and take photos. So I hadn't noticed these great changes I will speak of.

This past couple of weeks I've had my grandchildren visiting, and trying to be a 'great' granny, went to find a lake-with-beach for them when they yearned to go swimming. Now here's where the changes mentioned earlier started to show up.

First off, we went to Cold Lake. Great changes have taken place there since my last visit two or three years ago. Speaking of the beach, of course, only; no doubt there are many other changes, too. The big thing here is the new marina. All those lovely boats, penned around with floating piers, and non-floating piers, and the long dock to drive on, for those who have heavy things to load and unload.

The shoreline is made for gazing over the water, with convenient benches and, overhead, a series of tall light standards, all beautifully painted blue, and every second one—ten or a dozen in all—has perched on its tip-top a large plastic owl, of the great-horned variety, just like the one which decorates my yard, and presumably put there both for beauty and to keep the gulls off the lamp-posts.

Alongside the 'old dock' as I once knew it, has been built a lovely building, which may have many uses besides the washrooms inside it, but these were what we sought and found. In front of this, and with a nice path to walk over there on, still stand, resplendent with new paint, the totem poles we have enjoyed on previous visits. No longer a rough, utilitarian beach, this stretch of Cold Lake's mainly rocky shore has had a face lift and a half, and looks just great, lots of parking space, paved roads, the works.

We drove up past the lakeshore homes, along the lakeshore drive, and past the sandy beach, where kids were swimming, playing and noisy, the parking spaces fairly full. It looked tempting, but I had miles to go and things to do, so promised the kids we'd find a swimming beach much closer to home—and just as nice.

A great promise, that. How did I know all has changed?

On our way home, after picking up a few things in Bonnyville, we swung over to take a look at the public beach at Muriel Lake. Crowded as it was, I still was able to find a parking space, and willingly sat for a half hour or so, while the kids dashed out into the water for a wetting.

My idea of a pleasant stay at a lake or swimming pool, is not merely to find a parking place in the glaring sun, and sit in the car while I wait until the kids become agreeably saturated. I'd like a bit of shade, and a bench, perhaps, even a path to wander on. Such as once abounded round our many watering spots in days of yore.

A couple of days later I loaded them up, and, says I, we will go easterly, to the much touted Ross Lake Park, where we will surely find lovely parks, good swimming beaches—yeah, all the things which once were. We did find the so-called park, alright, and the boat launch, and some signs—of sorts—which we took to indicate several beaches, suitable for kids to wet themselves down in. So I drove around—and around, and around—but all the roads led to signs saying "Private" or "No Admittance" and much other mumbo-jumbo, all indicating that we, with only one careful of kids, were definitely not welcome at that lake. And we never did find a beach, although I believe we may have been allowed to hike—but try to sell that to kids who want to swim!

So back to Laurier Lake. Again, except for that long barren point of dirt, which boasts only a biffy for conveniences, (no change room, pier for kids, shade, benches) and a few miles of public lodgings hung on every post with signs proclaiming the utter "privacy" of the plots, and such threats as "Stay Out," "No Admittance," etc., we quickly realized how very unwelcome we were, and again, we left. To say I was becoming distraught is playing it cool. Outraged, is the word.

So, we wiggled our way up through the trees we mustn't enter, and I stopped and took a picture of some wildflowers, fearing all the while a tap on the shoulder and a warden slapping on a pair of handcuffs, for daring to get out of the car, and we came at length to Whitney Lake. This was once a lovely beach, with a sandy shore, and piers out in the water, a fenced in area where boats were not to go, safe for kids to swim, even if accompanied only by a non-swimming grandmother. What can I say? There is water there. And a pier for launching boats, and a bit of room for campers and such. We even found one picnic table, in the shade near shore, but the beach is an unspeakable mess, having been ploughed, or uprooted by a thriving hoard of pigs, completely horrible to walk on. Boats roared by, with skiers, within rods of swimmers, sending tidal waves of mud slopping over their heads.

Where, indeed, is the clean sandy beach we knew, the piers, the buoys.

A few days later, determined to seek until we found, we went to Al-most Beach, on the south shore of Moose Lake. A slop of green slime rolled in, almost to the boat launch, no place I'd let a kid into. We searched for other beaches; they too are unusable, the water very low and full of slime. Back to the public Muriel beach.

Here I slowly inched my way between the closely packed vehicles, but saw no place to park, much less to sit and eat our picnic lunch. We left, stopping at Kopala's store, where for $ 5, we were allowed to drive onto their land, and sit on the grass (all tables being taken) to eat our lunch, use their biffy, and let the kids wallow in the very shallow water for a couple of hours.

What in the world has happened to our lakes, our beaches? Have we really sold all the nice places to private owners, who now can enjoy all the beaches, the shady spots, the wooded areas? And hang "KEEP OUT" signs all along our once-open shores. If such is true, then I think that is a crime and an outrage. Even if I never put a toe in a lake again, I see no reason why my grandchildren—and yours—should be confined to some slimy little bald spots baking under the sun, when we have the nerve to call this "THE LAKELAND."

Wagon train windup

By Mildred Dunham

The fourth annual wagon train sponsored by the Elk Point and District Light Horse Club again made its ride in late July and early August. Starting at Fort George, where they assembled Sunday afternoon, July 29, thirteen wagons and thirty two riders joined the train. Participants from 6 years old to 70 set out for a little taste of the Old West. The wagons came from Elk Point, Lindbergh, Bonnyville, Boyle and Lacombe, and there was also one wagon from Hanna, 200 miles away.

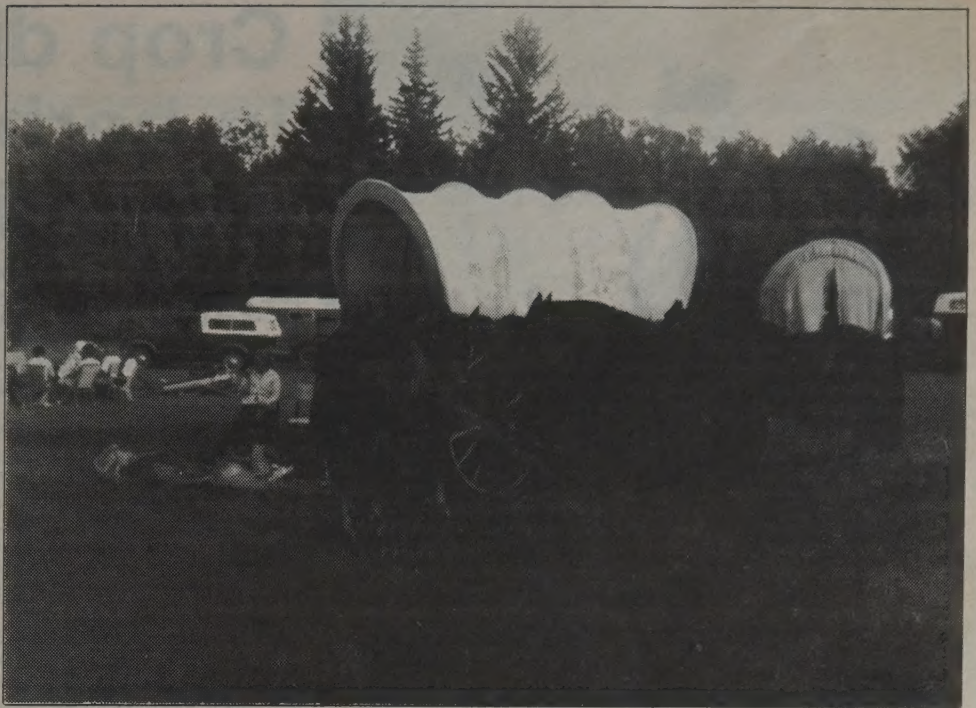

Although very enthusiastic, two wagons had to drop out the very first day. There was a slight accident on one wagon, while another had horses that refused to work. The rest travelled and camped for two days until reaching Muriel Lake, where they had a one day layover. There, they enjoyed the spirit of being one big family where kids and preteens mingled with the older people. A potluck supper was enjoyed by all.

Twice during the ride, names were drawn for small prizes. One of these was for the oldest driver, who was over 70 years old. They met Indians along the way, they travelled by modern means and were very friendly. There were a few mishaps along the road, there was one incident of a sick horse, and one horse that had lost a shoe. The weather was hot and dry. They had music every night and lots of visitors to their campsites.

Leaving Muriel Lake, they again travelled and camped for another two days, ending up at Spring Park Hall. They had travelled about sixty miles of rough terrain that resembled the Old West. At Spring Park, a barbecue supper welcomed the hungry travellers.

Although tired from the trip, everyone waited impatiently for the band so they could kick up their heels. BUT, the band had confused Friday with Saturday, and didn't show. A visitor, Walter Saranchuk, went home for his banjo, and a couple of other people joined in, so the dance was on. Sixty year old riders danced into the night, and a good time was much enjoyed; the close of another wagon train.

Alberta is full of beans

The attributes today's consumer wants from food should have Alberta's pulse growers smiling from ear-to-ear, says an Alberta Agriculture foods and nutrition specialist.

Common Alberta pulse crops include the grain legumes of beans, peas and lentils. In the 1980s, pulse crops became important alternatives to more traditional crops diversifying Alberta farmer's production choices.

"Grain legumes are low in fat and calories and don't contain cholesterol. They're a good source of protein when combined with complementary foods, an excellent source of iron, high in fibre and low in sodium," says Linda St. Onge. "They can be used in all sorts of trendy ethnic dishes and to top off their advantages, they're economical."

Dried grain legumes, particularly beans, don't deserve the consumer perception that they are difficult to prepare, she adds. The first step is to rehydrate them. Start by washing the beans and discarding any foreign matter or discolored beans.

Beans can be quickly soaked or soaked overnight. In the quick method, use three cups of water for each cup of beans. Bring to a boil and simmer for two minutes. Remove from heat and let stand for two hours, then discard the soaking water. For overnight soaking, again use three cups of water for each cup of beans. Soak for 12 hours and discard the soaking water.

"After soaking, beans can be completely or partly cooked to use in your favorite recipes," she says. "Remember cooked beans are more than double the volume of dry beans."

Cooking grain legumes until they are tender is very important, she says, because some toxic compounds are present in uncooked beans. "Make sure beans are cooked before adding any acidic ingredients a recipe may call for, such as tomatoe, or the beans won't soften."

She also has a tip to help reduce flatulence caused by the natural sugars dissolved into the cooking water. "You can drain off the cooking water, but the trade-off is losing some of the water-soluble B vitamins."

Baked beans are popular through the year and bean salads are a perennial summer favorite, she says. "You might like to try Alberta beans in something a little different, such as hummus, a spicy dip made with mashed chick-peas."

Beans can be canned or frozen for ready use in recipes. To freeze, pack a freezer container with completely cooked beans and freeze. To can, a pressure cooker must be used. "Soak the beans, then pack hot beans into hot jars and fill the jar with boiling water, leaving one inch of headspace. Remove air bubbles, adjust the lids and process at 10 pound pressure (11 pound in a dial gauge canner) for 75 minutes if using pint jars and 90 minutes with quart jars."

Thank You

I would like to thank all my family, relatives and friends for coming to celebrate my birthday. Thanks also to Norman Ward's orchestra for such good music.

$1.1 million paving contract awarded

EDMONTON—Alberta Transportation and Utilities Minister Al "Boomer" Adair has announced a $ 1,107,513 contract has been awarded to Sandstar Corporation of Edmonton, for 20.1 kilometres of highway paving in the Elk Point area.

Mr. Adair said, "This work will involve final paving a total of 20.1 kilometres on Secondary Highways 897 and 646, as part of the Government of Alberta's commitment to complete the program of paving secondary highways throughout Alberta by the year 2000."

The project will put the final coat of paving on Secondary Highway 646 from Heinsburg corner east to the junction of Secondary Highway 897, and south from that point to the North Saskatchewan River.

The construction work is scheduled to be completed this fall.

OORP Donates To Video Project

Honored Royal Lady Mary Kryvenchuk and Lady Genevieve Shmyr present a cheque to Elk Point Hospital dietician Charlotte Engstrom, to be used toward the purchase of a collection of videotapes on nutrition and health related matters. The videos will be available to be shown to local groups, Ms Engstrom said, to maximize the number of viewers to benefit from the information.

Crop diversity promise in herbs, spices and essential oils

Basil, coriander and dill might not push wheat, barley and canola down the list of major crops grown in Alberta, but herb, spice and essential oil crops have an excellent potential in Alberta, says an Alberta Agriculture scientist.

"Thousands of acres of these types of crops have the potential of being produced in Alberta with returns that generally are more profitable than our standard, traditional crops," says Rege Gaudiel, a research agronomist at the Alberta Special Crops and Horticultural Research Center in Brooks.

Gaudiel says interest in special crops has grown in recent years. "Interest is usually more prominent during times when traditional grain prices are low and markets weak and farmers are looking for better returns. When prices and markets recover, then the alternative crop is somewhat forgotten."

"Lately, however, there's been a recognition of the advantage of special crops to complement and supplement traditional crops, not just be their alternative."

Some southern Alberta farmers are already experimenting on their own, he says. Crops aren't grown in large acreages, more in the range of tens of acres rather than hundreds, says Gaudiel.

A growing demand in North America for herbs and spices for diverse uses including food flavoring, fragrances and pharmaceuticals has spurred research in Alberta, he says. The trend of increased awareness, consumption and demand for herbs and spices is part of a societal search for healthier diets, he adds. "A health conscious population favors spice flavoring over salt, and using natural products."

Gaudiel, who heads the special crops and agronomy section at the Brooks center, says their research work has two thrusts: what will grow here and, then, what is most viable commercially.

In research work supported by Farming for the Future funding, more than 50 different kinds of annual and perennial herb, spice and essential oil crops were grown under irrigation at the Brooks research center. A number of crops produced high enough yields of good quality to be of commercial interest he says.

Among the annual crops that showed commercial potential were: basil, borage, coriander, cilantro, dill, celery, lemon bergamot, summer savory, parsleys, Mexican marigold, annual artemisia and German chamomile. Perennial crops tall enough for mechanical harvest that also appeared to overwinter were: caraway, catnip, bergamots, fennel, chives, garlic chives, sage, hyssop, comfrey, horehound, rue, common oregano, common marjoram, common wormwood, tarragon, spearmint, peppermint, monarda and lovage.

Tests included seeding depth, row spacing, seeding dates and the best stage of plant growth for harvesting. Weed control trials were also conducted to learn how various crops tolerated herbicides.

"We're really still in the learning stages," he says. "Production is still expensive because of the seed stock, starting plants in the greenhouse and then transplanting them. And, we still need to know more about processing."

"We are developing a solid information base for a long term development program and for commercial production. We've already screened out the best potential crops. Overall, I believe there's a lot of optimism from producers, industry and government."

Gaudiel also notes that Israel, in a relatively short period, about 10 years, established an export industry worth about $ 17 million.

New farm fuel policy encounters criticism

By Rob Desjardins
Staff Writer

Fewer farmers will have access to purple gas and purple diesel, after a controversial alteration to the Alberta Farm Fuel Distribution Allowance.

Previously, farmers whose gross agricultural earnings from their land exceeded $ 2,500 per year were permitted to use the fuels. That figure has now been moved up to $ 10,000.

The change has provoked criticism from New Democrat agriculture critic Derek Fox.

"The people hurt most by this move are young farmers who are struggling to get established on a small scale without taking on a lot of debt," he wrote in a report August 9.

Fox also suggested that farmers nearing retirement and those who have experienced crop failure will also be adversely affected by the move.

But in an interview on Friday, Len Robinson, one of St. Paul's District Agriculturalists, disagreed.

"There is an appeal process available. If anyone can demonstrate that farming is their main source of revenue, they will be heard."

"I think it's more of a perceived problem than an actual one."

The provincial treasurer's office is responsible for the administration of the policy. Miles McDougall, a representative of the office, joined Robinson in rejecting Fox's allegations.

"We will look at individual circumstances, and be flexible if warranted."

Farmers suffering from such incidents as crop failure will not normally be refused the use of purple gas and diesel, he said.

"Normally, though, a $ 10,000 gross is really not that high. If someone makes less, it's certainly not their main form of livelihood."

"And we're trying to focus our farm assistance on real commercial farm operations. We cannot afford to spend so much of the taxpayers' money on others anymore."

Still, Fox remains skeptical, disagreeing outright with McDougall's claim that the higher minimum represents a distinction between the "serious commercial" and "hobby" farmer.

"The government is obviously not paying very close attention. They haven't considered the impact it will have on farm families and small communities," he said in an interview on Monday.

"We estimate there are 10,000 such families that fall below the $ 10,000 gross figure in the province. These days, few are profitable - people have to rely on off-farm income to supplement their farm efforts. At a time when returns are going down, the government decides to jack their costs up."

"And when you take money out of the pockets of small farmers, you take it away from small communities."

Sea cadets gear up for a new season

St. Paul's Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps 241 Arrowhead is preparing for another season and would like to remind anyone that's interested that the corps meets Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. at the Legion Hall in St. Paul beginning Sept. 5.

If you are between 12 and 19 years of age you are welcome to join. There is no fee and uniforms are supplied free of charge. Those who do join prior to Sept. 14 will qualify to attend the weekend canoe trip at Moose Lake Sept. 14 to 16. For more information please call John Yakimec at 645-3005.

A Leo child is a boisterous creature, full of confidence and energy. He/she is often bigger physically than their classmates, and if they are allowed to indulge with food 'till their heart's content, they will be even heavier and bigger for their age. They want the attention of other children as well as the ones they mix with. This habit will continue through life. You can always find a Leo child because he is the head of the pack, at school or at play. It appeals to him enormously to be first. It has nothing to do with responsibility, but simply the status that goes with it. Who is the star in a school play? Leo is at his/her best when there is an audience. Generally speaking, Leo children enjoy their childhood and schooldays very much indeed. It's a lively atmosphere. There are two things which the Leo child needs to learn in his early years which do not come easily to him at all, and any personal difficulties he has are usually due to one or the other of them. The first is that he has to realize he is not (except on rare instances) the best scholar or athlete in the world: not being the best, as a matter of course, is hard on a young Leonine ego. The second is that respect is sometimes due to those in authority over him. Leos never really grasp the idea that respect is something given, not always received. It's impossible to dislike him/her. The one great advantage of Leo is the love, warmth and generosity that flows freely from them all.

Aries

You'll never be at a loss for fun ways to spend your free time. You enjoy taking off when the spirit and work allows you. Avoid activities that are strenuous or risky during summer heat. Slow down, always respect your body. Eat lightly, while hot.

Taurus

Family-oriented outdoor activities fill the bill for you. The main thing for you is to relax and avoid stress. Fill leisure moments with hobbies, preparing menus, cookouts, even a bubble bath will get your mind off your troubles.

Gemini

You're one of the most social signs. Summer fun means more time with friends. You love sitting on the old front porch. You'd really feel better with a little more exercise. Too much inactivity can make you sluggish in such hot weather.

Cancer

You love swimming, but actually hate summer weather. They'll find you indoors. You love to barbecue though, for your soulmate especially. Restaurants appeal to you, with the air-conditioned coolness. You find the escape enjoyable and refreshing.

Leo

You're not letting any grass grow under your feet. You're out there, shining like the Sun. Job stress is likely to give you sleepless nights. You'll have to find new ways to unwind. Good news is heading your way, maybe you'll sign on the dotted line?

Virgo

Unusual advice comes from a friend to help you solve a difficult problem. Life is so full of surprises for you. You are showered with love and attention. It helps to soothe your spirit. Take heart, a wonderful party, luxurious with happiness, awaits you.

Libra

One who loves you is anxious to give you aid or assistance. You'll feel a resurgence of the love that attracted you to your partner, along with the comforting realization that you've gained not only a lover, but a best friend as well. Plan a quiet period.

Scorpio

A love interest could bring a long-term involvement. Changes are slow in coming but be ready, a change is happening. The months ahead will be joyous and carefree. Don't let opportunities slide by. Don't overspend because it's a holiday. Stand tall.

Sagittarius

Your impulsive nature sometimes makes you accident-prone. Slow down a bit. You could find a way to finance that new travel trailer you want. Strained muscles will put you on the sidelines for awhile. Take better measures not to over-exert yourself.

Capricorn

You're rather withdrawn, let a loved one cheer you up. Be patient! The Full Moon spotlights a big win which could turn dreams to reality. You're playing lucky numbers. You're an achiever and often push yourself to the limit. Take more time.

Aquarius

Spend a little time reading and resting. A wet towel has been thrown on your love life. You need time alone to sort out your feelings. Keep after your dreams, they do come true at times. Playing a role does not suit your nature; be truthful, junk it!

Pisces

Don't fret if your goals seem continuously out of reach. Remember, slow and steady wins the race. A day at the lake will ease your stress and you will feel refreshed. Don't play intermediary between feuding friends. You could be the one ending up in the hot seat.

Happy 25th Anniversary

Community newspapers and literacy instruction

Addressing functional illiteracy in Canada is the goal of a new program involving community newspapers.

NewsAble: Adult Basic Literacy Experience is an adult literacy program designed to utilize the community newspaper as a learning tool. It will be introduced to literacy teachers across Canada with a series of workshops this fall.

Modeled after a successful elementary school program called Newspapers in Education, NewsAble introduces adult learners, to their community, through their local newspaper. As the community newspaper reflects how a community functions, it has the potential to be an effective tool in curbing functional illiteracy.

The program is offered through a manual, which will be provided to literacy teachers through the fall workshops. In Alberta, they will be presented in Calgary on September 12 and in Edmonton on September 15.

Participants must pre-register with Barb Schultz, AAAL, c/o

Lethbridge Community College, 300 College Drive South, Lethbridge, T1K 1L6, phone 320-3388; or by contacting Angela Keller-Herzog or Tony Richards at NewsAble, 321 Chapel Street, Ottawa, ON K1N 7Z2, phone (613) 232-3569.

NewsAble is co-sponsored by the Canadian Community Newspapers Association and CODE, the Canadian Organization for Development Through Education. It is funded by the Canadian International Development Agency and the Secretary of State.

Strangest 'Visitor' Yet

The staff at the Elk Point Tourist Information Centre is still puzzling over the identity of this mysterious 'visitor' which appeared in one of their flower beds between closing time Sunday night and opening time Monday morning. The cauliflower-shaped mass emerged on top of a begonia, and as the day wore on, turned from snow white to light brown. Whether the little stranger is animal, vegetable or mineral, and where it came from, we're...not...sure! It would'n't come in and sign the guest book, either.

What's news at the library?

It is hard to believe that there are only two more weeks of the Summer Reading Program, and of course the last week is reserved for PARTIES!! We would like to remind everyone in the programs that the elementary and preschool parties will be August 21 and 24 respectively. Since the parties have a beach theme, we hope to see sunglasses, shorts, beach hats and most important of all, a big smile.

Last week the elementary children created egg carton creatures and the preschoolers constructed vegetable people in preparation for the Agricultural Fair. We encouraged everyone to enter their piece of work.

We would like to remind everyone that the deadline for bringing in entries to the poster contest is Friday, August 17.

On Thursday, August 16, at 3:00 p.m., the matinee will be Lassie.

Come Home. See you there!

NEW BOOKS:

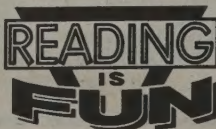

The Sky Is Falling by Kit Pearson--This novel for junior readers is about Norah and her brother Gravin. The year is 1940 and England fears an invasion by Hitler's army. The children's parents are planning on sending them to safety overseas and new adventures begin for them.

The Anastasia Syndrome And Other Stories--a collection of short fiction stories by Mary Higgins Clark. These stories include Terror Stalks The Class Reunion, Luck Day, Double Vision and The Lost Angel.

Wide as the continent and wild as the West, Paint The Wind by Cathy Cash Spellman, is the story of one unforgettable woman and the three strong men who risk anything to possess her.

The Alberta Oil Sands Technology and Research Authority recently celebrated its 15 years of achievement in the development of oil sands technology. They have donated to the library the book, AOSTRA: A 15 Year Portfolio of Achievement. In this book you will enjoy reading about the major technology and research accomplishments in the field of oil sands development.

Also donated to the library a collection of 22 books of Wildlife Encyclopedia. Each book is beautifully illustrated with wildlife from different parts of the world, a donation much appreciated by the library.

In Memoriam

PELECH, Nick

In memory of Nick Pelech, who passed away one year ago, August 15, 1989.

God called him home, it was His will But in our hearts we love him still; His memory is as dear today As in the hour he passed away. We often sit and think of him When we are all alone, For memory is the only thing That grief can call its own.

Ever remembered by his wife Helen, children and grandchildren.

Thank You

WILLIAMS

John and I extend a very special "thank you" to our friends who were so kind to me when I was in the hospital. The most welcome visits, get well cards, flowers, gifts and prayers and wishes for my speedy recovery are really appreciated.

Our sincere thanks go out to Dr. Estey and the hospital staff for the wonderful care I received.

May all the love and caring you share with others return tenfold to you.

Welcome to the 7th Annual Oilmen's Golf Tournament

E.P.O.A. President's Welcome

On behalf of the Elk Point Oilmen's Association, I wish to extend a hearty welcome to all golfers to our seventh annual Tournament.

As in past years, you are participating in two fun-filled days of golfing, banquet evening, major prizes and socializing with friends old and new. Let your hair down and enjoy yourself. We appreciate your support.

A special thanks to our sponsors and donors who make this event what it is. As well, I would like to recognize the hard work of the Committee members in organizing this event.

Good luck and good golfing.

Paul Arndt
President, E.P.O.A.

Welcome from Mayor Kleeberger

It is my pleasure to extend a warm and cordial welcome on behalf of all citizens of Elk Point, to the golfers and sponsors of the Seventh Annual Oilmen's Golf Tournament.

This annual event had grown and improved with the staging of each passed and successful tournament. Though early in its history, this tournament has become the favorite of many golfers. And, is already entrenched with tradition and notoriety.

By attracting participants from across northeastern Alberta, Elk Point can capitalize on the ideal opportunity to promote our vibrant community, its varied and unique attractiveness, and, as importantly, its citizenry.

Congratulations to the Elk Point Oilmen's Association for organizing what I am confident will be another outstanding and successful golf tournament.

I am also confident that our many visitors will be warmly received during their stay in our community. Best wishes to one and all for a most enjoyable tournament.

Bruce G. Kleeberger

Canadiana Cuisine

Sherry Pelech's award winning ethnic meal contained the early Canadian favorites such as pea soup, venison stew, bannock and a Saskatoon dessert.

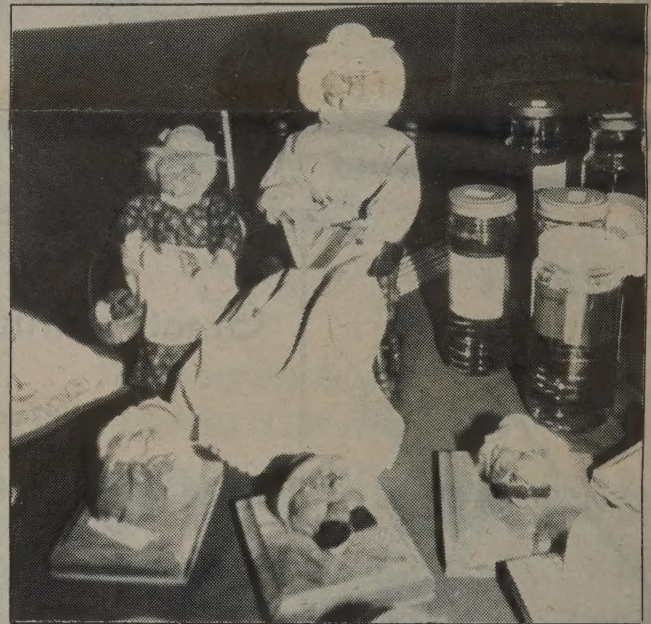

Green Thumbs Galore!

House plants of all kinds and sizes made an attractive showing at Elk Point Fair.

Crafts For All Seasons

Elk Point crafters keep busy 12 months of the year creating articles of beauty to decorate their homes for every season.

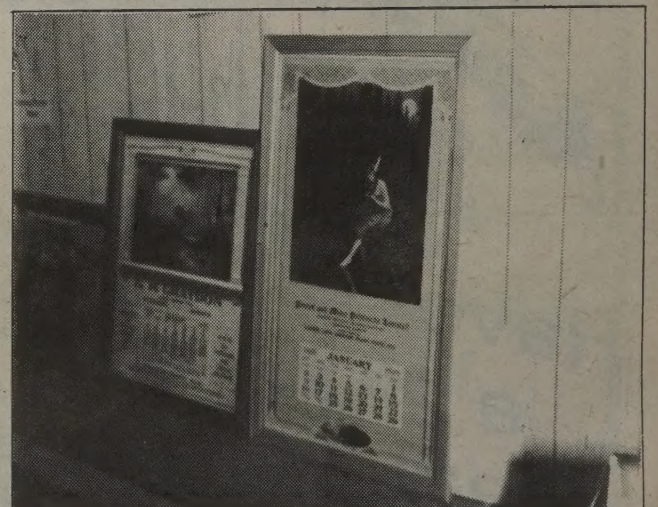

Apple Cheeked Grannies

These little old ladies were popular visitors at the Craft Show and Sale held in conjunction with Elk Point Fair.

Skilled Seniors

From filmy crochet to oil paintings to crusty homemade bread, Elk Point's senior ladies brought out their best for the Fair.

Old Time Calendar Art

Walter Saranchuk's framed calendars from the 1930s drew almost as much attention at the Craft Show and Sale as his handsome wooden ware.
